BACKGROUND ON SIERRA LEONE TOURIST BOARD DEVELOPMENT

1982: Sierra Leone developed a Tourism Master Plan - a study done by Parnel Kerr Forster and funded by the then European Community (EC), laid the foundation for the creation of the Tourist Board.

1988: Technical assistance from EC, led to the appointment of a Tourism Adviser with task of implementing the major recommendations contained in the Tourism Master Plan i.e., separate responsibilities between the Ministry of Tourism and Cultural Affairs as policy maker and the NTB as implementing body.

1990: The Ministry of Tourism and Cultural Affairs acting on the Tourism Adviser’s Report enacted a new and more comprehensive legal instrument guiding the Tourism sector (Development of Tourism Act 1990.) This Act established a National Tourism Authority – the National Tourist Board of Sierra Leone, defined its roles, responsibilities and provided very attractive statutory development aids and incentives for investors in the Hotel and Tourism sector.

1997 – 2002: The difficult years due to political instability.

2007 – Date: The Hopeful years.

Views on Sierra Leone Tourism – Evidence of Change

“Sierra Leone has everything a traveler could desire.”

The Observer

"It won't be long before Sierra Leone takes its place in Europe's packaged beach-holiday scene."

Lonely

“Africa's sunshine secret... peace now reigns and the beaches are beckoning. ...In fact, it’s been a while since I last got so attached to a place so quickly.”

The Times

“There is nowhere quite like Freetown anywhere else in the world ....This is real Africa, not comparatively clinical South African, or package-holiday north Africa – this is where the sights, the sounds and smells of the continent come alive.”

The Observer

The growth potential of the sector is striking - especially given the rave reviews of the critics and the size of comparable tourist markets
“River No 2, with its mountainous backdrop and glittering oceanic horizon, rivals anywhere on earth for breathtaking coastal grandeur…” – The Observer

There are many miles of unexploited white and golden sand beaches throughout the coastline but in particular down the Western Peninsula. A Land of Fragile Beauty Emerges After Years of War, by Marc Santora Critically acclaimed and still underinvested, the beaches of Sierra Leone remain almost entirely untouched. Coastline presents significant opportunities for high-end tourism lodges, similar to those in other parts of Africa. Government is building the required infrastructure to improve access to key beach locations.

Constraints

a. Lack of coordination between the Board/Ministries/Departments and Agencies.

b. Lack of enthusiasm and support from the Private Sector to support marketing activities.

c. Low marketing budget.

d. Lack of capacity both in terms of human and capital capacity. (service Delivery poor and access to finance limited and expensive)

e. Limited Government support.

f. 80% of the Tourism products are underdeveloped.

g. Currently the regulatory framework of the tourism industry is obsolete, weak and does not reflect modern trend.

i. Poor infrastructural facilities hindering tourism growth.
IS THERE A POTENTIAL FOR A NEW APPROACH AND IMPROVEMENT? Yes

SUPPORTING FACTORS

a. Need for Government support towards tourism development and promotion (Tourism now part of the Government’s Agenda for Prosperity programme)

b. More funding (Support from the EIF- Tier 2, under the Sustainable Development and Promotion Project a three year funding totaling 2.9millions dollars to support tourism development and promotion in Sierra Leone)

c. Re-positioning and branding using the data driven approach

d. Human resource (More training opportunities being developed)

e. Redefining of the sector with the review of the Development of Tourism Act 1990 and the formulation of an Eco-tourism policy and Action Plan
HURDLES TO ACHIEVING THIS GOAL

a. Political (the fight to convince government, visa issue, having other line ministries or sectors to work together with i.e, Ministries of Lands, Energy and Power, Transport and Aviation Foreign Affairs, Roads Authority, Immigration etc)
b. Social (Poverty, Diseases, etc)
c. Cultural (cultural intolerances)
NEW STRATEGIC PLAN

a. Develop linkage with the Private Sector and other relevant MDAs. Ensure the Private Sector is key in expanding the Industry

b. Source alternative funding to strengthen product development, marketing/promotion and capacity building not addressed under the EIF Tier 2.
Experience and get the feel of a paradise unspoilt
